

The WHCA is working with the White House on exploring cheaper/less burdensome testing options.

- The White House will provide tests through an outside provider at the existing Jackson Place testing center. These would cost ~$170 cost and would be billed through Travel Command.
- The White House will accept results presented by journalists enrolled in a 3x weekly rapid PCR testing regimen. Journalists should be prepared to provide the results of their three most recent FDA-authorized PCR test results. Please reach out to the White House (presstesting@who.eop.gov) for specific information on the testing protocols they will accept.
- The White House will also accept results from an FDA-authorized same-day at-home or point of care antigen test, such as the BINAXNow test offered by eMed.com ($25/test). Results must be from that day. Please reach out to the White House (presstesting@who.eop.gov) for specific information on the testing protocols they will accept.
